in the first room which we entered a dreadful, athsome smell prevailed, and there was a nameless something in the apartment that chilled the blood.

"There is the room where poor Mary Geary died in awful sudering," said the Captain. "How many beds were here, Walsn?" he asked suddenly of the old man, who turned around in a jump, his old wheezy bones seeming to snap like castanets by the rapid movement.

"There was four, sir. Mary Geary laid over there," pointing to a corner of the room, "where she died in convulsions. There was another gai in that corner; they called her Gusty Launing. After she was confined she laid there for five months with the chilis and fever. Why, some of them 'ud be confined and get up the next day after taking the red pills, and some of them would jump all over the beds in convulsions."

and volocity gains of a fletime were stored.

Dark stains and streaks of blood covered the dirty floor like the colored lines of railway on a map. A rough board partition separated the apartment from other rooms we had not seen. There were bundles of bloody blankets, bed ticks, philows, bloody stockings and lines in beaps. Au old mantelpiece of carved wood adorned the room.

"How many poor girls died here?" said Captain Kennedy to old Peter Walsh.

"Never but one—the Geary girl," answered the old wretch, and he trembled like a leaf. "There was always a lot of them here from time to time—gals as got in trouble."

We enterd the next room, which was covered with shelves from floor to ceiling. Every shelf was crowded with the Infernal implements of the abortionist. There were hasks and jars, bottles and viais, glass retoris, glass implements and steel contrivances. There were bays color, and of a light gray and globular shape; paper boxes and heaps of cigar boxes. There were books of medicine, and works on poison and agriculture and korticulture; a book entitled "Four Acres Enough;" another entitled "The Way which Leads to Fortune." and six volumes of the Journal of Agriculture. There was, in the midsto of Bratinal and single women of supposed respectability, resident in all parts of the United States, a small gilledged New Testament and a map of New England, whence a majority of the letters came, which were written by women who should never have lengthed to dwell—on the fact that the "Glory of Manhood was Strength." Among the manuscripts were articles on markets and agriculture being epetially marked. The mind of Evans, alias Lookup, ran on these and kindred subjects.

We went into the next room and found a litter of bed clothing covered and saturated with human blood, and on the back shed a milk can full of blood.

was told to show this.

SOME OF THE DOCTOR'S CORRESPONDENCE.
In the drawers a number of letters were discovered from unfortunate females in different parts of the country. The names are not given of the wretched women, as it would be cruel to expose them in print:—

Dran Sir Having seen your advertisements in the papers, in which you recommend your piles on highly for ladies in distress, that I thought I would turn to you for annistance. I have spent ever fifty dollars already for medicines, but none had the desired effect. I am in a delicate condition now, a little over two months, what is very distressing to me, is I am a widow since three years. Do you think your pills will have the desired effect upon me? If so please write and I will there seed you the amount for them.

I am in a very dranfful state, as my family would feel very had if they should know it. So please write soon, as I suppose I should not lose a day longer than necessary. Yours, infig.

AT THAT TIME DARKNESS REIGNED, and all was still save the barking of a pack of dogs and the cackling of a flock of geese. On reaching the door of the "doctor's" reshience Captain Kennedy rapped, and after the lapse of a few moments some one from within cried out, "Who's there? What do you want?" To which Captain Kennedy, in a changed tone of voice, repited, "I want to see you, Doctor," The latter, who is well acquainted with Captain Kennedy, talled to recognize the voice, but having his supptions accorded, reasons and appeared at que of the windows as if in the act of making his supptions accorded, reasons and appeared at que of the windows as if in the act of making his supptions. The Captain and his officers once inside encountered both dogs, pigs and geese, but by the aid of a dark hantern with which they were provided the hiding place of Lookup was discovered. When the astonished man, whose place was so unceremoniously entered, saw Captain kennedy he caved in at once and offered no resistance. On examining the house if was found to be PILTHY IN THE EXTREME, and presented more the appearance and had more the odor of a pig pen than the habitation of human beings. The abrupt entrance of the officers aroused from their simplers two farm hands, who were badly frightened, and at first believed the place had been broken open by burglars.

The Captain and his officers, after concluding their investigations, started away with their prisoner and reached the city about four o'clock A. M. Lookup was subsequently arraigned before Superintendent Keiso, at his office, who o'dered his picture taken for the Rigues' Gallery. While at the prisoner's house in Samatea Captain Kennedy learned that Mrs. Dickson, who had principal charge of the wile den in Chattam street, acting as midwife, nurse, disposing of the Rigues' country home (she lived with Lookup) a Dickson, who had principal charge of the yile den in Chatham street, acting as midwife, nurse, disposing of the tileguimate offspring of patients, and in any other capacity that occasion required, left her country home (she lived with Lookup) at five o'clock the previous evening for parts unknown. Lookup doubtless knew the whereabouts of the woman Dickson, but, of course, would not give the desired information. Yesterday afternoon Lookup, in custody of Captain Kennedy, was arraigned before Coroner Flyan, and through his counsel, Mr. William F. Howe, asked to be liberated by giving "good real estate ball in any amount required" to await the result of the investigation. The accused denied administering any medicine to the woman Geary with the view of procuring a miscarriage, and says she was admitted to his place against his wishes by Mrs. Dickson, who acted as general manager of the den. The motion to admit to ball was denied by the Coroner, whereupon Captain Kennedy took the accused to the Tombs, there to remain till the close of the inquisition, which is named for Monday next. Mr. H we seemed to hold out the idea to his client that there might be an insufficiency of evidence to detain nim for causing the death of the young woman; but should a verdict be rendered against him by a Coroner's jury the counsel believed it would be a ballable case.

The 80-Calleto "Doctors" is a large, coarse man, and even vulgar looking, with an abundance of dark hair, mixed with gray, and dark whiskers. He was dressed in an ordinary suit of black clothes, much worn, approaching to shabbiness, and, judging from his appearance in the Coroner's office, Lookup does not feel much consider, through the aid of able counsel, has managed to escape punisement. Late yesterday afternoon Ann O'Neil, a woman about thirky years of uge, was brought to the Cyroner's office, office and made

BASE BALL.

Спісадо, Nov. 3, 1870. The White Stockings, of Chicago, intended to start this morning for Cincinnati, to play a test game on neutral ground with the Mutuals, of New game on neutral ground with the Authans, of New York, in accordance with a challenge issued by the inter cub, but about twelve o'clock last evening a telegram came from the proprietor of the hotel in Cincinnati where the Mutuals had been stopping, saying the Mutuals had left a snort time previous for New York. The White Stockings did not start this morning for Cincinnati in consequence.

TEMPERANCE ANHIVERSARY.

A grand public temperance meeting and anniversary was held last night in the Pilgrim Baptist church, Thirty-third street, between Eighth and No. 125, Sons of Temperance. The exercises were opened with prayer by the Rev. Francis Evans. Addresses were then delivered by Captain Thomas Charters and Rev. Stephen Merritt, Jr., the Grand Past Worthy Patriarch of the Order in this State. The choir of the church furnished the music, under the direction of Mr. Munsey, Me organist. The house was well filled.

A very pretty young woman named Annie Suilivan, residing at 16 Hamilton street, was yesterday arraigned before Alderman Welsh, at the Essex Market Police Court, on a charge of attempting to commit suicide by throwing herself into the East river. Officer Parsons, of the Seventh precinct, said he rescued the accused as she floundered in the water struggling to die. The unfortunate herself said that she was weary of life, that her friends persecuted her and that death was a welcome relief. She was sent to the care of the Commissioners of Charities and Correction. A very pretty young woman named Annie Suili-
